CANDIDATE STATEMENT

Equality, labour rights, press freedom and quality jobs are key-words in my own live, because I decided long time ago journalism is not possible with no equal and no quality jobs. I'm completely sure about every journalist need to be on safe and have covered their basic necessities to do real journalism, defending and practising press freedom and thinking in our profession as a public good, because it's what I think we are whatever would be property of television, journal, radio, webpage in which we were working.

All kind of precariousness, from low salaries to false freelancers, no collective bargaining, no copyright rights or censorship are principal topics who we need to fight, over my point of view, always having gender and youth perspective because they are the most precarious collective in Journalism.

I want to work to care our young journalist offering them future with good salary, copyrights, safety, guarantee for work in a real press freedom environment; to offer our senior colleagues good conditions to be retired, and to look on the eyes to all women journalists to claim they never more need to elect between to be editor in chief, war correspondent, economical or sports editor or to be women.

CV

- 1996-2001 (from 1 July to 15 September every single summer): Intern in Diario Palentino (Palencia) doing not paid journalist labours from correcting texts to coordinate province journal department (with four graduate journalist in).
- September 2001 - March 2002: Correspondent for Diario Palentino in Venta de Baños (Palencia), with half a contract, half a category and complete work (I was alone, with no photographer, in that office).
- March 2002 - October 2002: National and news agencies editor in Diario Palentino.
- October 2002 - October 2003: Political issues editor and coordinator on regional department in La Tribuna de Toledo (Toledo).
- October 2003 - Until now: Political, construction, military, and transport issues editor in ICAL (Valladolid), a regional new agency in Castilla y León (Spain).

BIO

Journalist and unionist half and a half, I was born in Palencia (Spain) in 1975. I lived and studied there until 1995 when I moved to Salamanca to study Journalism Degree in a Pontificia University. After that I returned to Palencia to start to work in different positions in Diario Palentino, then move to Toledo, to work on La Tribuna; came back to Castilla y León to work in ICAL regional news agency, where my journalist work is actually.

In 2007 I moved to Madrid to work in CCOO to start to build Media Sector on this industrial union, the biggest socio-political organization in Spain, with more than 950.000 affiliates, 230.000 on Citizen Services Federation, in which actually I'm Institutional Affairs responsive and FSC-CCOO Journalist Association co-chair.

UNION CAREER

I have been union delegate for first time in Diario Palentino, when I only had six service months in the journal, minimum time to be union delegate in Spain. There weren't bands in the first-aid kit, and any answer when you asked for your labour rights so I decided help to solve that kind of problems. I became in member Union when my company move to me to Toledo.

I was candidate as union delegate in La Tribuna de Toledo too but my company offered to me move to Valladolid, nearest to my family and friend and I said yes, and in only 6 months more I became in union delegate again in ICAL.

When I came back to Valladolid Margarita Serrano, FSC-CCOO Journalist Association chair in Castilla y León, contacted to me again because she wanted to be retired... It was a really good time, and she is in my mind every day because half of the unionist it's because of her. I'm a really lucky person because I have met really good unionist in my way.

After 5 years improving my negotiating, unionism, institutional and organization skill I moved to Madrid in 2007 to start to organise Media Sector in FSC-CCOO, and after survive the most horrible year and a half for employment and right on the Spanish media sector, my union decided change my position and I was working in my confederation for 3,5 years as deputy secretary in Sectorial Political issues.

On December 2012 I came back to Media Sector in FSC-CCOO where I was organization, budget, international and Journalist Association responsive until may 2017, when I become in Institutional responsive in the whole FSC-CCOO, position I'm doing now. In this period I was member in Digital, Copyrights and vice-chair in Labour EFJ Expert Groups.
